Indian farmers' union leaders agreed to meet ministers on Tuesday, possibly paving the way for a seventh round of talks with the government that has so far failed to soo many farmers who say three new agricultural laws threaten their livelihoods. Concerned about the 24-hour sit-ins of farmers on the outskirts of New Delhi, Prime Minister Narendra's government had invited protest leaders to further talks on Thursday. Farmers' unions still insist they want the laws repealed, a coalition of unions called Samyukta Kisan Morcha said Saturday in a letter to the ministry of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare. Manchester United's stunning away win escape came to an end when they missed the chance to finish second in the Premier League despite being in the lead twice at Leicester on Boxing Day. Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's team had put together an extraordinary sequence of 14 consecutive road wins in all competitions and went ahead at the King Power Stadium through Marcus Rashford and later Bruno Fernandes, although the Foxes showed a brilliant spirit in a pulsating festive encounter as the levellings of Harvey Barnes and Jamie Vardy prevented them from being leapt to the leaderboard by their opponents. It was almost the perfect start for the visitors, with Fernandes cutting a fine cross for the unmarked Rashford, who somehow headed in from a few yards out. Crisis-hit Arsenal host Chelsea at the Emirates Stadium in desperate need of a win to ease the growing pressure on manager Mikel Arteta and allay growing fears of being genuine relegation candidates after a terrible series of form. The Gunners headed into the festive period sitting in 15th place and just four points above the last three after their worst start to the season since 1974 and are one game away from equalling a club record for the most consecutive Premier League games without a win (eight). Chelsea will be without Hakim Ziyech for today's Premier League derby in London against Arsenal. The Moroccan international had targeted mikel arteta's struggling team after limping out victory against Leeds with a tendon in his strained knee earlier this month. Callum Hudson-Odoi, who also suffered a similar injury, is already back in the squad for Monday's game against West Ham.What a year 2020 it was. The Football Association is required to host a pilot appointment as part of the building regulations to change the walkway from the Via Olimpica to the turnstiles. But they are also willing to host a trial event as the government assesses mass crowds returning during the Covid-19 pandemic. Manchester City's EFL Cup triumph on 1 March was the last time fans saw football at Wembley, while England had not played there with fans for more than a year. Gareth Southgate's team will face San Marino and Poland in March, which could offer the opportunity for a return of fans on a small scale, although possible matches for the Test event have yet to be discussed. This season's EFL Cup final has also recently been moved to April 25 in the hope that coronavirus restrictions will be eased to allow more fans to participate in the match. The Wembley ramp, known as the peckway, remained for 46 years before work began earlier this year to replace the famous concrete structure. The new Olympic Steps and elevator were designed by Quintain, the developer of the Wembley Park area, to open the area leading to the stadium. It is clear that Wembley needs around 10,000 fans to cover the costs of staging a match at the venue, although the process of getting fans back to watch football is seen as more important than breaking even on the initial events. The FA feared losses of £300million as an impact of the coronavirus pandemic when the sport stopped during the first lockdown earlier this year. A great fantasy football league service is great if you're on a but there are many people who have to get away from their computers, whether it's a bar or an airport. Or a bar at an airport! These are apps that are directly related to the leagues hosted on their websites. You won't be able to write and set your own on the ESPN app if your league is hosted on CBS Sports and vice versa. However, you should still be able to enjoy the news and articles about them, no matter where your league is hosted. For iPhone and iPad Just like the two above, you can set up your own aligners, check player transactions and news, watch videos, and more. The current version was launched in mid-May, and said draft on the go capacity would be available soon. You can also manage multiple teams with this app. As you may have read, I really like the draft rooms on this site. I think they are among the most aesthetically pleasing throughout the lot. For iPhone and iPad This app encapsulates all your Fantasy teams on CBS, including Fantasy Football, Baseball, Basketball and Hockey. For the past two years, CBS Sports has really got after the hard mobile market, and this app is proof of that. You can make drafts and auctions on your iPhone now and now you will be able to chat with friends in the draft room as well. Finally, you'll get all player updates and projections from their content team within the draft room. For iPhone and iPad Just like with most of these apps, you'll be able to draft (or auction), check the live scores of your Fantasy games, and maneuver your rosters and maneuvers around. One thing I really like is that they have a fake draft lobby for iOS users, so you can tease the draft away from your iPad, even if you don't have an ESPN league. You can also watch fantasy videos with Matthew Berry and Co. with this app. For iPhone and iPad This app has been updated recently, so what you see now is what they will have in September. You can easily switch between leagues, post messages on your league board, and get breaking player news, with analysis provided by both Yahoo! writers, such as Scott Pianowski, Brandon Funston, and Brad Evans, along with the Rotoworld team of update writers. For iPhone and iPad MyFantasyLeague.com is one of the best fantasy football draft sites out there and they successfully switched their no-frills website to a no-frills app. It looks good, has a fair price and works with one of the best championship services around. You can customize the look with over 30 color combinations, so you can set it up for your favorite NFL team or if your Fantasy Football has its own color scheme. I also like that they show the Positional Point Differential, which shows which positions are helping or damaging every team in your league. These are great Commercial! For iPhone and iPad This app works really well for everyone who is deciding to make a draft over the course of a few days. It alerts you when your pick-up draft is at the top, so you can check who's available and tear better boy. You can easily trade players in your lineup and trade players. Their push notifications also ensure that you are always notified when you need to set up your training. Sleep UI, without ruining the fun! iPhone only The app makes it even easier to use their league service, as you can manage teams, check your score live, and get player news for your team and everyone else, including free agents. No matter what league your Fantasy Football is based on, you'll find their corresponding app more useful.
